1. Representing lenders and financial institutions in the drafting/negotiation of documentation relating to project financing, including construction, term, and development financings;
2. Representing project developers and project sponsors in the drafting/negotiation of renewable energy project documents, such as EPC contracts, O&M agreements, power purchase agreements and ground and roof leases, as well as conducting due diligence of renewable energy projects; and
3. Representing buyers and sellers in corporate acquisitions and dispositions.

Candidates must have an excellent academic record and strong writing and analysis skills.

Firm Description

SPR is a boutique (approximately 30-attorney) environmental and renewable energy law firm based in New York City. SPR has been a leader in the field of environmental law since the 1960s. The Firm represents clients in a wide variety of matters, including environmental impact review and permitting; hazardous substances remediation; environmental issues in business and real estate transactions; zoning, land use, and municipal law; offshore wind, solar, and other renewable energy projects; project finance; litigation; construction; and climate change and resiliency. SPR's client base ranges from major corporations and developers to government agencies and authorities, small businesses, organizations, and individuals. The Firm also maintains a robust pro bono practice involving both environmental and non-environmental matters. For more information about the Firm, its attorneys, and its practice areas, please visit www.sprlaw.com.

Benefits

SPR's associates benefit from the Firm's smaller size by working closely with all of the partners, and with each other. Associates are exposed to a wide variety of assignments within SPR's practice and take on a great degree of responsibility. Associates also participate in activities such as contributing to the Firm's blog and recruiting summer associates.

Along with a competitive salary, SPR offers employees a comprehensive benefits package that includes a 401k retirement savings plan, as well as profit sharing, health, dental and life insurance, and flexible spending accounts for medical and dependent care. SPR has a hybrid office attendance policy.

The salary range for 3 to 5-year associates is currently $200,000-$275,000, excluding bonuses.

Application

Please send a cover letter, resume, unofficial transcript, and writing sample (up to 10 pages) via email to recruiting@sprlaw.com. Please note “Environmental Associate Position” in the subject line of the email. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis.
